DEDICATION

ROY BENTON DAVIS
B.A., M.A.
F. B. WILLIAMS PROFESSOR of Chemistry

For thirty-eight years a Sewanee man! Such is the record of the University's senior professor, Roy Benton Davis, head of the chemistry department since 1918. Mr. Davis had come to Sewanee in 1917 from Washington, where he had worked with the Chemical Warfare Service during World War I. His job had been to locate chemists in uniform and place them in appropriate research laboratories.

Chemistry as a career did not particularly occur to Mr. Davis until his freshman year at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, in 1908. He credits his teacher, Dr. Harry N. Holmes, with inspiring his interest to the extent that he went on for his master's degree at the University of Missouri. Devoted to his work and especially interested in organic chemistry, in which he is currently authoring a textbook, Mr. Davis often works a nineteen-hour day. He likes to be in his office in Science Hall by 7 a.m. He explains, however, that this really "depends on when the milkman comes." Sometimes his office lights don't go out until 2 a.m., as he types class notes, studies chemical journals, or checks papers.

A great believer in a sound liberal arts background, Mr. Davis always requires his students to take three to four years of languages, and a generous amount of English, philosophy, and social sciences. He holds a deep faith in God, and the compatibility of the idea of God with today's concepts of science has often been the subject of "bull sessions" in the chemistry library.

Mr. Davis encourages his students to use their minds, not just their memories, and emphasizes the building of resourcefulness and independence as much or more than scholastic proficiency. He wants "his boys" to obtain the best training possible.

Although his standards are high for his students, they are always higher for himself. Mr. Davis' reputation as a teacher is such that his recommendation at graduate schools is usually tantamount to acceptance. At the presentation of the Leon P. Smith Award by the Crucible Club of Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, in 1942, it was said of Mr. Davis: "He is loved and respected by all his students who have received from him training in the art of independent thinking and action."

Typical of the respect and admiration held by former students for Mr. Davis is this remark by Dr. Henry F. Johnstone, '23, now professor of chemical engineering at the University of Illinois: "I have been associated with a great many teachers of chemistry, and there is no doubt in my mind that Professor Davis is one of the finest of all."

THE RT. REV.
R. BLAND MITCHELL
Bishop of Arkansas
Chancellor of the University

THE CHANCELLOR

This age is characterized by mass production. It is turning out the chain-store variety of human product—the same everywhere.

Sewanee has never attempted nor believed in "mass production" education for her sons. Always she has followed the vision of her Founders—that the leadership of the South and of the Nation depended upon the training and development of the individual according to his gifts and genius; that each man is distinctive and should have his distinctive talents brought to fruition by character-training in the setting of Christian truth. The reason Sewanee men have become outstanding in many fields of life's endeavor is that they have been trained to stand out as individuals through the moulding power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

As our Founders expressed it: "We shall secure to the South an institution of the very highest grade, and raise up a body of scholars of whom no country need be ashamed. . . . We desire to build up a great University, which shall open its arms, far and wide, to literature, to science, to art, to knowledge, under the sacred sanction of religion as we have received it from our fathers."

America desperately needs this kind of education for the leadership of its oncoming generations. Sewanee's mission is to supply as much of it as possible of the highest quality possible for the benefit of our Nation and of our Southland.

R. BLAND MITCHELL, Chancellor

Gen. Williams, Bishop Juhan, and Dr. McCrady look over some plans for Sewanee's future.

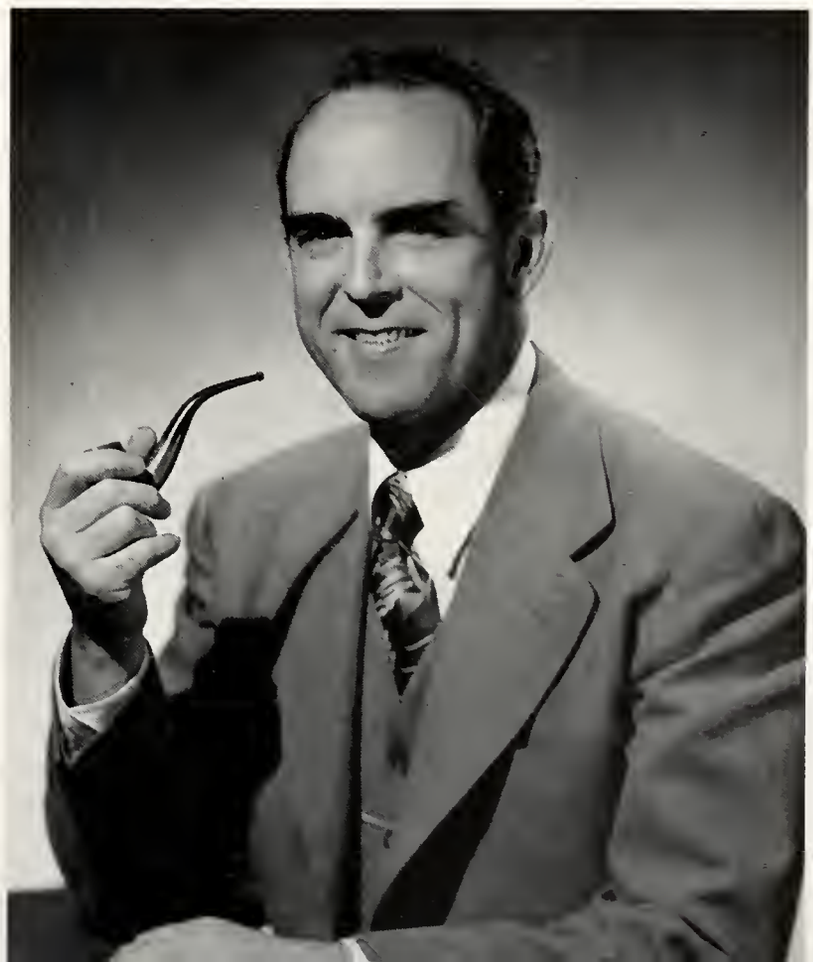
VICE-CHANCELLOR

All of my life I have been deeply impressed by the extraordinary beauty of this mountain and the invigorating and enriching academic and spiritual tradition of this institution. Though, as you all know, it is not a place into which the cares of the world do not intrude (indeed, there is no such place), it is a place in which those who understand and respond can find the strength and competence and grace to meet whatever comes. I hope all of you who have become a part of Sewanee have felt and responded to this influence which I have tried inadequately to express in the following poor verses.

Hail Sewanee, beauteous mountain,
Sculptured Mesozoic plain
Carved by rivulet and fountain,
Clad in forests drenched with rain.
Thou, so blessed with wondrous beauty,
Give us taste to understand;
Make our labors and our way of life
Deserve this favored land.

Teach us discipline and freedom;
Give us godliness and strength;
Let thy crags and falling waters
Nurture us until, at length,
When from cliffs we view night's splendor
We are moved to search our hearts
For the words with which to render praise
For what God's grace imparts.

EDWARD McCRADY, Vice-Chancellor



DR. EDWARD McCRADY
Vice-Chancellor of the University

BRIGADIER GENERAL L. KEMPER WILLIAMS
Chairman of the Board of Regents

BRIG. GEN. L. KEMPER WILLIAMS, Chairman	New Orleans, La.
HINTON F. LONGINO, Secretary	Atlanta, Ga.
THE RT. REV. R. BLAND MITCHELL (ex officio)	Little Rock, Ark.
DR. EDWARD McCRADY (ex officio)	Sewanee, Tenn.
THE REV. GEORGE M. ALEXANDER	Columbia, S.C.
THE VERY REV. ALFRED HARDMAN	Atlanta, Ga.
THE RT. REV. JOHN E. HINES	Austin, Texas
THE REV. HENRY BELL HODGKINS	Pensacola, Fla.
THE RT. REV. FRANK A. JUHAN	Jacksonville, Fla.
THE RT. REV. HENRY I. LOUTIT	Orlando, Fla.
CHARLES McD. PUCKETTE	Chattanooga, Tenn.
ALBERT ROBERTS, JR.	St. Petersburg, Fla.
HERBERT E. SMITH, JR.	Birmingham, Ala.
J. ALBERT WOODS	New York, N.Y.

The Board of Regents acts as the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, by which it is elected. The three Bishops, three Presbyters, and six laymen who make up the Board meet officially three times a year with the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, who serve as ex officio members. The Board has general supervision of the government and maintenance of the University; included in these powers are those of the approval of all faculty appointments, the approval of plans for new buildings and of methods for financing them, and the conferring of honorary degrees.

BOARD OF REGENTS

Seated: Hardman, McCrady, Juhan, Williams, Woods. Standing: Hodgkins, Roberts, Puckette, Smith.

THE DEANS

DEAN OF ADMINISTRATION

DR. GASTON S. BRUTON

As Dean of Administration, Dr. Gaston Swindell Bruton is second-in-command to the Vice-Chancellor, acting as Vice-Chancellor during the absence of Dr. McCrady. He supervises housing on the Domain, as well as being in charge of the matrons and the proctors. He is in charge of the physical maintenance of the University. Dr. Bruton is also head of the Mathematics Department.

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

DR. CHARLES T. HARRISON

Dr. Charles Trawick Harrison serves as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in addition to his position as Professor of English. He has charge over the academic system in general and over the faulty. Specific duties of Dr. Harrison's are those involving academic records, changes in courses, course credits, and transfer records.

DEAN OF MEN

DR. ROBERT S. LANCASTER

Dean of Men for the College of Arts and Sciences is Dr. Robert Samuel Lancaster, who is also Professor of Political Science. Almost all problems not of an academic nature fall under Dr. Lancaster's jurisdiction. Chief among these are the problems of class and chapel attendance, and student relations and problems. Dr. Lancaster serves as Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Discipline.

THE RT. REV.
EDMUND P. DANDRIDGE

B.A., M.A., University of Virginia; B.A., Oxford University; D.D. Virginia Theological Seminary; D.D., University of the South; Acting Dean of the School of Theology.

DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY

The St. Luke's School of Theology is a seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Since its founding in 1878, eight hundred men have gone forth into the ministry of the Church to serve as priests, bishops, or scholars. Today five hundred Sewanee men are ministering in every Province of the Church and in seventy of her one hundred and two dioceses and Missionary Districts. Sewanee's theological school has taken great strides since "DuBose, Shoup, and Juny offered courses in theology in 1871."

The School of Theology has maintained an outstanding place in the history of Episcopal Theological education. In the early days, such men as DuBose, Shoup, and Quintard were on the faculty. DuBose has been called "the foremost thinker in the Episcopal Church in America." Certainly men of such caliber brought to Sewanee students who were also of high caliber. The late Bishop Manning was one of the early students who was later to become a great figure in our Church.

St. Luke's is entrenched in the best of Sewanee's traditions. Its students wear the gown and receive, upon recommendation of the Faculty of the School of Theology, the academic hoods of degrees, which are in the Oxonian tradition. The physical features of St. Luke's School of Theology bear out the Gothic influence on the University buildings. St. Luke's Hall, erected in 1878, faces Manigault Park and is the main building of the school. St. Luke's Chapel, erected in memory of the Rev. Telfair Hodgson by his family, is regarded as one of the finest examples of its kind of Gothic architecture in the country.

The readjustment following the recent controversy has made possible the way for continued growth. There is every reason to believe that if the recent progress of the school is any criterion, the possibilities for growth in every aspect are unlimited.

THE ORDER OF GOWNSMEN

The gown became the insignia of the Order of Gownsmen when the Order was founded in 1873 at the instigation of Chaplain William Porcher Dubose. The Order has since become the governing body of the students of the University, setting the standards of student conduct and cooperating with the administration in handling student problems. Juniors, seniors, and theological students who have fulfilled prescribed scholastic requirements are allowed to wear the academic gown, the greatest external evidence of the ties linking Sewanee to Oxford. The gown is worn to all classes and to chapel services. All gownsmen entering a semester with an average of 2.65 are given the right of unlimited cuts until mid-semester, when they are given that right in all subjects in which they have a "B" average. The charters for all student organizations and committees are granted by the Order. The Executive Committee, the Discipline Committee, and the Ring Committee are among the more important committees which are directly responsible to the Order. The Executive Committee—made up of the President, Vice-President, and Secretary of the Order, one Gownsman from each fraternity, and one non-fraternity man—meets once a month to prepare an agenda for the monthly meeting of the Gownsmen, to hear reports of sub-committees, and to act on matters not serious enough for a special meeting of the Order of Gownsmen. The Discipline Committee has jurisdiction over the enforcement of freshman rules; and the Ring Committee is responsible for the sale of class rings. Membership in the Order of Gownsmen is restricted to those men whose maturity and familiarity with Sewanee aid them in preserving the ideals and time-honored traditions which are such a vital part of Sewanee.

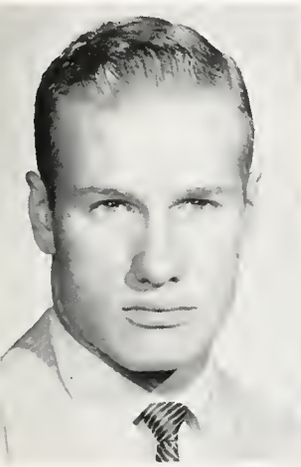
THE PROCTORS

BILLY MILLAR
Head Proctor, First Semester



BOBBY PARKES
Head Proctor, Second Semester

The Proctor's job is often the most trying and thankless one at Sewanee. It is his duty to maintain orderly conduct in the dormitory and to assist in solving the many minor problems that arise daily in a dormitory housing more than forty young men. The Proctors are appointed by the Vice-Chancellor on the recommendation of the Proctors of the previous year. As it is a post involving great responsibility, selection as a Proctor is one of the highest honors that the University Administration can bestow on an undergraduate; the highest such honor is appointment to the position of Head Proctor. Since the Proctors act as the connecting link between the Administration and the students, only reliable, capable, and conscientious men of proven ability are selected. With the exception of Gailor and Barton Halls, there is one Proctor in each dormitory. Head Proctors this year were Billy Millar and Bob Parkes, Proctors in Gailor Hall. The other Proctors were these: W. W. Davis in Elliott Hall, Dick Corbin in Hunter Hall; Bill Doswell in Tuckaway Inn; Don and Doug Crane and Julian Walker in Barton Hall; George Pope in Cannon Hall; John Boult in Johnson Hall; and Bob Murray in Hoffman Hall. The Proctor in St. Luke's Hall was R. N. Walkley, and R. C. Bascom was Proctor in Woodland.

Boult, Chairman; Corbin; Pugh; Parker; McAllister; Damon; McGee; Palmer; Thompson.

HONOR COUNCIL

Each new student who registers at Sewanee signs the Honor Code. The observance of the Code is one of the most important aspects of Sewanee life, and its all-pervasiveness is immediately recognized. Because of the Code, examinations are unsupervised, respect for the honesty of others is fostered, and each student becomes aware of his responsibility for his own acts. Meeting only when a case is to be presented to it, the Honor Council is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the effectiveness of the Honor System on which the integrity of degrees granted by the University is based. The enforcement of the provisions of the Code assures the protection of the honest student from the unfairness of the occasional violator. The Honor Council is composed of two seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, one freshman, and three theological students, elected annually by their respective classes. All incidents involving alleged dishonesty are referred to the Council, which studies the case and decides whether or not there has been an infraction of the Honor Code. If the Council finds that the Code has been violated, it recommends to the Dean of the College that the offender be requested to withdraw from the University. Just as the Honor System is one of the first things a student notices about Sewanee, it is one of the last things he will forget.

The Publications Board is the administrative body for all campus publications. The Board, headed by Dr. Monroe K. Spears, editor of the "Sewanee Review," is comprised of three faculty members selected by the Vice-Chancellor, two students elected by the Order of Gownsmen, one member of the faculty of St. Luke's, and one theological student. Also included as non-voting members of the Board are the editors and business managers of the "Purple," the CAP AND GOWN, and the "Mountain Goat." The Board meets once each month to review all University publications. The Board's main duties are to receive and approve nominations for the editors and business managers of the student publications, to advise the editors as to possible means of improvement, to supervise the allocation of publication funds, and to seek better methods of financing the publications. In short, the publications Board keeps Sewanee's publications running smoothly while searching for ways in which they could be improved.

DAVID NUNNALLY
Editor

Because the plan of separating the humorous and serious aspects of student creative writing by publishing separate editions worked to such advantage last year, the "Mountain Goat," with David Nunnally as editor and Julian Walker as business manager, continued that practice this year. Due to the sharp rise in the cost of publication, only two editions of the "Goat," instead of the three editions of past years, were issued. The literary edition, issued in December, was a much more successful issue than was last year's because of wider student interest and superior writing. The also successful and more popular humor edition was issued late in the second semester. A parody of the "Purple," to be issued in April or May, was planned at the time of this writing. The original "Mountain Goat," the first real humor magazine on the campus, first appeared in 1925. The staff of this "Goat" was, for many years, selected by Sopherim. The magazine flourished until its discontinuation during World War II. After the war, "Helikon" was established to serve as the literary outlet for Sopherim, but in 1951 the "Mountain Goat" was reorganized, taking the place of "Helikon." The 1954-55 "Goat," aided by increased student interest and participation and by high-quality content, has made great progress toward regaining the prestige held by the original "Mountain Goat."

THE 1955 CAP AND GOWN

JOSEPH P. McALLISTER
Editor

BOONE E. MASSEY
First Semester Business Manager

A yearbook is a mystery until it is seen by the students for whom it is published. No one, not even the editor, knows just how the various sections will "hang together," or how the book will be received.

The 1955 CAP AND GOWN was born in April of 1954. By the time school started in September, it was all down on paper—the only remaining task was to fill up all those spaces so neatly outlined on sheets of dummy paper. An eager staff attacked its year-long problem. There were setbacks and discouragements, but there was also steady progress. The staff learned again how cooperative and generous the people of the Mountain really are. By March, the staff's creative work was finished, and the material rested with the printers and engravers.

With its delivery in May, the growth of the CAP AND GOWN itself ceases. But it is the hope of the staff that the book which they have produced will serve as something more than simply the history of one of Sewanee's years; they hope that it will serve in the future as a memory-refresher, as a method of allowing its owner to return once more to the happenings of the year, and as a link binding the ex-student to the cherished traditions that are Sewanee.

One of the most important features of life at Sewanee, as at any college, is the student newspaper. More than offering experience in journalism to a few staff members, it encourages unity and spirit among the students, giving them an opportunity to know other students' interests and activities. It also offers advice as to possible improvements, moulds student opinion, and offers recognition to those deserving it. All through the year, the ever-present deadline has been battled by the "Purple" staff, which is actually at work all week on each paper. The cycle begins on Wednesday, when the reporters are given assignments by the news editor; the stories are given to the copy editor on Friday and Sunday nights for the necessary editing. The proofs are checked by the proof staff on Saturday and Monday nights. The paper is made up by the managing editor and editor on Tuesday, and is printed and delivered on Wednesday; then the cycle begins again. Leonard Trawick, editor of the 1954-55 "Purple," instituted an editorial policy which has brought to the "Purple" a more local atmosphere. The tone of this year's "Purple" has been noticeably lighter and more entertaining. The reintroduction of original cartoons, slight changes in style involving terms of address and punctuation, less use of filler material, and the publication of more four-page papers have all been important features of Trawick's editorship. This year, as it has since 1927, the "Purple" presented keys to its editors and to staff members who had made outstanding contributions to the "Purple" during the year.

On thumbing through any of the finer magazines today, one cannot help noticing that a new field of artistic expression has come into its own—that of fiction and advertising illustration. One of the best known contributors to this demanding profession is Jon Whitcomb, whose paintings grace the pages of several of our top magazines, particularly "Cosmopolitan," to which he contributes several illustrated pages each month.

In addition to his magazine work, Mr. Whitcomb is noted as one of the twelve top commercial artists who have devoted bits of their professional skill in making up the curriculum at the Famous Artists School of Westport, Connecticut.

Jon Whitcomb had already reached the magazine covers by the time World War II started. After several years in the Navy, he returned to the drawing board and regained his position as one of the highest-paid artists in this country. He now handles most of his art work in his own studio in Darien, Connecticut.

Because of his position as today's most celebrated illustrator of the beautiful American girl, Mr. Whitcomb was our natural choice as the selector of Miss Sewanee, 1955.

The Sewanee Corps of Cadets, now a well-coordinated, business-like organization run largely by student officers, is commanded by the group commander with the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel. He is assisted by a staff which aids him in planning the operations of the Corps as a whole. First and second year students attend two classes a week, while all juniors and seniors attend classes five times a week. All cadets drill on Wednesdays, and during certain periods, drills are held on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Advanced ROTC students are paid for class attendance.

In its four years at Sewanee, the Department of Air Science and Tactics has become an important part of life at Sewanee. By granting draft deferment to members of the Cadet Corps, the program offers students the opportunity to continue their educations and to receive instruction in the fundamentals of military training. Qualified undergraduates are also given the chance to receive reserve commissions as second lieutenants in the U.S. Air Force upon completion of their college work. In addition, the program provides valuable additions to the extracurricular activities of the University; the Cadet Club, the Arnold Air Society chapter, the Elite Flight, the University-ROTC Band, the Rifle Team, and the Saber Drill

The Cadet Club, which plans all cadet activities other than actual training activities, once again sponsored the Military Ball, which was held in the Spring. This dance has replaced the Spring dance once held by the German Club. In late February, the Cadet Club gave a party for the student body as well as Cadet Club members in the basement of Magnolia.

Directed this year by Mr. Charles M. Galbraith, who was made an honorary cadet major, and commanded by Cadet Major Edward McCrady, the Band made its annual trip to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras festivities. It also participated in parade activities in Tracy City, Cowan, Winchester, and Chattanooga.

Posting a fine record again this year, the Rifle Team took part in several matches by mail with other schools. On March 18-19, the team traveled to Chapel Hill for a match with the University of North Carolina. They also were participants in the nation-wide William Randolph Hearst rifle competition. Led by Cadet Second Lieutenant Clyde Fasick, the Saber Drill Team performed at the Spring Military Ball for the third year.

duction to primary flight training was taken this year by the Department of Air Science and Tactics as it placed greater emphasis on the AFROTC flight orientation training program. Organized trips were made by cadets to Air Force bases in St. Petersburg, Greenville, Bainbridge, and Jacksonville. Plans are under consideration for an even further increase in the use of flight orientation training.

Completely in keeping with the military and liberal arts traditions of the University, the AFROTC program has truly become a valued asset to the University and its students through its activities.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Sewanee's highest recognition for outstanding work in extra-curricular activities is election to Omicron Delta Kappa, the national honorary leadership fraternity founded at Washington and Lee University in 1914. Membership in the Alpha Alpha circle, which was granted its charter at Sewanee in 1929, is limited to three per cent of the student body. These men are chosen from the membership of the Order of Gownsmen. A point system, based on achievement in the fields of scholarship, athletics, social and religious activities, publications, music, and dramatic arts, is used as a basis for the selection of new members. As an organization, Omicron Delta Kappa serves a worthwhile purpose on the campus by striving to recognize those men who have shown character and ability as leaders in campus activities, offering by this an incentive for others to strive for similar achievements in their activities; to create, by selecting the most representative men in all phases of college life, an organization which is ably qualified, as a cross-section of campus interests, to discuss questions of importance to the student body; and to bring the students and the members of the faculty closer together through a mutual understanding of one another's problems.

WHO'S WHO

The Executive Committee of the Order of Gownsmen, acting as a nominating committee for "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," each year selects the most outstanding seniors of the College to be included in this national publication. Being named for inclusion in "Who's Who" is more than a local honor, since recognition is granted each year by this publication to campus leaders in more than six hundred colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. In determining those students best qualified to represent Sewanee in "Who's Who," consideration is given to outstanding leadership, scholarship, and service to the school. Other qualities considered are initiative, personality, and willingness to work. "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," by selecting students outstanding in academic pursuits, extra-curricular activities, and service, strives to present a representative cross-section of the leaders in all phases of collegiate life in this country and Canada, and to offer an incentive to other students to excel in these fields. This year, Frank Bozeman, Lucien Brailsford, Sandy D'Alemberte, Bill Doswell, Boone Massey, Bill Millar, Bob Parkes, George Plattenburg, Leonard Trawick, and Phil Whitaker were the ten men named to represent Sewanee.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Of all the scholastic honors a student can receive in college, the highest is election to Phi Beta Kappa. A national honorary scholastic society, it was founded in 1776 at William and Mary as a social fraternity, but in 1826 became the scholastic fraternity it is today. One hundred years later, Tennessee Beta was established at Sewanee. The fraternity recognizes outstanding academic achievement and, by fostering the spirit of active scholarship, offers encouragement to other students to work toward similar attainment. To be eligible for membership in Tennessee Beta of Phi Beta Kappa, a student must have, after 75 hours, an average of 3.60, or an average of 3.40 after 105 hours. Those who meet the scholastic requirement are automatically voted into the fraternity by the active members. Because Phi Beta Kappa is not exclusively an undergraduate organization, members on the faculty play a prominent part in the activities of the group. Also, provision is made for the election of distinguished alumni and faculty members, in order to recognize outstanding service to the college. The chief activity of the group is the initiation of its new members. This impressive ceremony begins with the formal initiation, followed by a banquet featuring an address by an outstanding speaker.

BLUE KEY

Blue Key, national service fraternity, chooses members on the bases of all-around ability, character, and leadership capability. One of the main hopes of the more than seventy-five active chapters of Blue Key throughout the country since the organization's founding at the University of Florida in 1924 has been to foster among students "an ambition for intellectual attainment and a desire to serve college and fellows . . ." Through its many projects, the Sewanee chapter lives up to this belief. The group sponsors the Homecoming Queen contest, the Intramural All-Star football game, the annual pre-season debate tournament, and the ever-popular Interfraternity Sing. It printed useful cards listing important telephone numbers connected with the University. Members serve as ushers at Chapel services and at all University functions. In cooperation with the Student Vestry, Blue Key members read the lesson each Thursday in Chapel. Members are selected, not only on the basis of what they have previously done, but also for what they can do in the future, from the junior and senior classes. This year new members were tapped at the Homecoming and Spring dances. George Plattenburg was Sewanee's delegate to the National Convention of Blue Key, held in Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays.

CHOIR

MR. PAUL S. McCONNELL
Organist and Choirmaster

The excellent work of the University Choir this year has brought it closer to attaining the prestige and quality of performance of the Choirs of several years ago. The performance of the Choir has steadily improved during the past two years. Perhaps the most active organization on the Mountain, the Choir leads the singing during Sunday and daily Chapel services. Each Sunday the group presents a specially prepared anthem. Preparation is made for these services at practice sessions every Monday and Thursday nights, under the able direction of Mr. Paul McConnell, who also serves as organist. It has been the custom of the Choir for many years to present a series of special programs of sacred music throughout the year. These programs, which involve months of intense preparation, are presented before the Christmas recess, during Holy Week, and at commencement. As well as being one of the most active organizations on the campus, the Choir is also one of the most representative, since it contains a large segment of the student body and is open to students of any religious denomination. The year's chief activity took place in April, when a 30-minute program of religious music was recorded on the RCA label. This record, largely a repeat of the Lenten concert in Nashville, has proved popular. Its sales are being sponsored by the Music Club.

DRAMATICS

The policy of the Purple Masque is to present plays which are entertaining to the audience and yet of sufficient worth first to warrant their production in an academic community and, second, to make the time spent in rehearsal worthwhile to the participating students.

The first production of the year was Rattigan's comedy "French Without Tears." In March Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock" was successfully presented. As the annual goes to press, rather elaborate preparations are under way for the presentation of Thomas Arne's Eighteenth Century Ballad Opera, "Love in a Village." For this a contemporary score, which will be photographed and reprinted, has been obtained, and director Brinley Rhys is waiting for a copy of the libretto from the Library of Congress, in microfilm. All copies of this work are in the Rare Book Collection, and cannot be circulated.

To augment the Purple Masque's productions, and to allow the presentation of plays too elaborate to be staged with existing facilities, the Sewanee chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, under the direction of Past-President Sandy Viner, has given a number of very successful play-readings in St. Luke's Auditorium. It is hoped that this innovation will continue in future years.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club has long had the responsibility of sponsoring the dances which highlight all Sewanee party weekends. This year the German Club continued to make their dance the chief festivity of each weekend. Setting a standard to be followed by the other dances was the Homecoming Set, when the orchestra of Bart Massengale provided the music. Adding an unusual touch in the way of decorations was the Mississippi River motif designed and executed by members of the Club. For the first time in several years, Blue Key chose this time to add to the festivities by tapping its new members. Because of the holidays, the usual Thanksgiving set was not held, but the lavish Midwinter Ball in February made up for the omission. The Cadet Club Ball in April and the Commencement Set each proved to be an unforgettable event in the weekend of festivities. Financially, this has been for the German Club the most successful season in a number of years, as the Club continued to follow the trend begun last year toward lower-cost dances. Señor Cromer, the German Club faculty advisor, again proved invaluable with his help. Also due much credit for the excellence of the dances is John Kennerly, for his help in the work of decorating and undecorating.

PI GAMMA MU

Those students who have a "B" average for twenty hours in political science, economics, and history, and who have shown an interest in the field of the social sciences are eligible for election to the Tennessee Beta chapter of this National Social Science Honor Society. Membership is limited to ten per cent of the upperclassmen. Dr. Thorogood is the organization's advisor, and the heads of the political science, history, and economics departments automatically become members. As a special project this year, members of Pi Gamma Mu have prepared weekly articles for the "Purple" on national affairs of political and economic importance. Meetings are held once a month.

SOPHERIM

Sopherim was founded in 1903 for the purpose of discovering, encouraging, and developing original talent in writing. It later became the mother chapter of Sigma Upsilon literary fraternity. Submissions in the form of poetry, drama, fiction, or non-fiction are accepted three times a year. The authors of those submissions which show promise are accepted as members of the organization. At the meetings, held twice each month, a speaker is heard and various phases of literature are discussed. At every third meeting, the members read their own compositions. Each year the group holds an open meeting at which a distinguished guest speaks on a topic concerned with literature.

Through the exchange of knowledge and talent, the Music Club seeks to further the musical education as well as the appreciation of music of its members. Since its founding in 1949, the Club has presented programs by talented members and residents of Sewanee at its monthly meetings. In order to help stimulate a wider interest in music among the students and residents of Sewanee, the Music Club, for the fourth consecutive year, sponsored the Sewanee Concert Series during the second semester. Limited to 25 members, the group recognizes students of outstanding musical ability and those who have helped to further music appreciation on the campus.

MUSIC CLUB

Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity represented at Sewanee by the Beta Tau Cast, recognizes Purple Masque members who have distinguished themselves in campus dramatic activities. Appearing in Purple Masque presentations, the members lend a stabilizing influence to the productions, aiding the less-experienced members of the casts. They also assist in play promotion and direction in all ways possible. In addition to giving its support to Purple Masque, Alpha Psi Omega has carried on its own dramatic work. This year, several very successful and well-received readings of such plays as "The Cocktail Hour," "Dr. Faustus," and "Ghosts," were given by the group under the direction of Sandy Viner.

First row: McGrory, Haines, Plattenburg. Second row: Ricks, Worrall, Boyles, Hamner, Toole.

DEBATE COUNCIL

The Debate Council, the governing body of intercollegiate and intramural public speaking at Sewanee, is composed of a maximum of ten men who have shown interest and ability in forensic competition. Jonas White, Instructor in Public Speaking, is their advisor. The Council grew out of two now inactive debate societies, Sigma Epsilon and Pi Omega. This year, six teams were formed because of increased interest shown by the student body. The Council acted as host for the Pre-Season Debate Tournament sponsored in February by Blue Key. Sewanee participated in four other tournaments and was represented at the Grand National Debate Tournament held in April in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

FRENCH CLUB

Making its first appearance on the campus this year is the French Club, made up of students of the French department. As an organization, it strives to promote a greater appreciation by the student body of the customs and culture of France as well as to increase the proficiency in French of its members.

At its initial meeting in the Fall, the group elected Ben Haines as its first president and chose Dan Abbott, Joe McGrory, and George Plattenburg to serve on a Planning Committee to make plans for future meetings and activities. Dr. Buck and Dr. Bates are the faculty sponsors of the group.

STUDENT VESTRY

The Student Vestry representatives from each class allow the student body to take a definite part in the religious phase of Sewanee life. The Vestry acts as an advisory council to the Chaplain, discussing the needs and wishes of the students and aiding the Chaplain in his work. A very active group, it supervises the use of Chapel offerings. It also recommends and pays the expenses of guest preachers, sends delegates to various religious conferences, supplies religious tracts and bulletins for the Chapel, and sponsors the Chapel lectures by members of the faculty. In Advent the Vestry sponsored the celebration of the Corporate Communion for Men and Boys of the Episcopal Church.

ACOLYTE GUILD

Through the All Saints' Acolyte Guild, more students are able to participate in the religious activities of the college. In addition to providing servers for all services in All Saints' Chapel, the Guild gives special instruction to those unfamiliar with proper serving procedures. As a club, the Acolyte Guild meets once a month to discuss possible improvements in services and to plan special activities. This year, Guild members once again conducted the annual Milk Fund drive which makes it possible to supply the colored school children of Sewanee with milk at noon each day. The Guild also sponsored a Christmas party for the colored children of St. Mark's.

VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fortunately, as of this writing, there has been only one fire on the Mountain this year. Coming out in full force, the SVFD was responsible for preventing the fire's spreading to nearby woods. Since its reorganization in 1951, the Sewanee Volunteer Fire Department has done a commendable job of protecting the campus and community from fire. The equipment, including a completely outfitted truck, is furnished by the University and is kept in top condition for immediate use. Led by officers specially trained in fire fighting, the group holds two daylight drills and one night drill a month. The Department also meets one Friday a month.

LOS PEONES

The weather got in the way, as usual, but Los Peones were ready for it this year. They held their November "fiesta" at the SAE house rather than at the Pavilion and, as always, it was a roaring success. Sombreros and bright serapes were once again seen everywhere in the crowd. To become a member of Los Pones, a student must either have taken Spanish or be taking it at the time of initiation. How well the group has succeeded in furthering its avowed purposes of increasing proficiency in conversational Spanish and studying the customs of Spain is not known, but they have certainly succeeded in promoting fellowship among the student body.

BE IT RESOLVED THAT: the Highlanders, by virtue of their ubiquitous awareness of Scottish customs and institutions and their vehement resolve to live and practice according to the same, be accorded the highest virtue and honor obtainable at this University, in hopes that their perfect record of total intoxication be perpetuated from henceforth in exemplification of man's successful realization of utilitarianism, rowdyism, and whiskeysourism."

WELLINGTONS

The Wellington Club was organized in 1948 when it was noted with some concern that there was no organization dedicated to the strengthening and maintenance of an awareness among the student body of Sewanee's Anglo-Saxon heritage. This was thought particularly incredible as Sewanee has always noted with pride its ties with Oxford and with England. So the Wellington Club was born of a desire to preserve the ancient traditions and governmental system of the mother country. Membership in this noble group is restricted to eighteen men who vow to perpetuate the ideals of England and to fight all Scotchmen, Saracens, Frenchmen, and, above all, Spaniards.

ATHLETICS

When Sewanee opened its football schedule October second, no one suspected that 1954 would give the Tigers their most heartbreaking season in the past several decades. Although the under-manned squad was usually out-weighed and was always out-scored, they were never out-fought during those sixty minutes each Saturday. If sportsmanship, team loyalty, and spirit were given a small place on the scoreboard, their record for the season would show no defeats. Even with the Purple's winless year, Tiger fans are still proud to say they knew and cheered the 1954 Sewanee Tigers.

The season's opening game against Howard turned out to be one of Sewanee's better games of the year. The Purple led Howard in every phase of the statistics, but failed to outscore the Bulldogs.

Sewanee received the opening kickoff and moved the ball across the mid-field stripe, only to have a fumble stall the attack. Late in the first quarter a severe mouth injury to Bill Doswell forced him to leave the game, leaving a big hole in the Tiger secondarly. After several exchanges of kicks, Howard scored its first touchdown when, midway in the second period, Anderson's pass to Taylor put the ball on the Sewanee three. After Ridley scored, Taylor kicked the extra point, giving Howard a 7-0 lead. Sewanee roared back after the kickoff with Parkes and Peebles moving the ball well. Interception of a Parkes pass gave Howard its second chance for a score as Anderson passed to Taylor for six. The half ended with the score 14-0. Half-time activities were highlighted by a Sewanee drill squad, which gave an unusual but entertaining performance.

Howard scored in the third quarter after recovering a Sewanee fumble on the Tiger 21. The Bulldogs held the Purple until the fourth quarter, when the Tiger offense caught fire. Captain Parkes blasted off the right side for twelve yards and a first down. Peebles on a a trap play moved the ball inside the Howard 30. With Peebles and Parkes leading the way, the Tiger team pushed the Howard line back to the one, where Peebles rammed over for the score. After halting another Howard drive, the point-hungry Tigers pushed the ball to the two, but failed to score. The line play of Phil Jones and Hoopie Tebault sparked the Tigers, but Howard won, 20-7.

Sewanee opened its home season a week later by losing another close one to Millsaps, 18-13. The first half turned into a defensive battle between two strong lines. The Majors took to the air late in the second quarter via the strong arm of Wolfe. Passes to Nall and Deaton gave the Millsaps eleven their first score and a 6-0 half-time lead. An injury to Tommy Peebles in the third quarter crippled Sewanee's running game, but the Tigers roared back through the air to score their first touchdown on a pass from Bobby Parkes to Gary Smith. With the score tied 6-6, Nall swept around Sewanee's right end for a 50-yard scoring play behind beautiful blocking, giving Millsaps a 12-6 fourth quarter lead. After a sustained drive gave the Majors their final score, Al Wade Jones directed the Tiger offense to Millsaps' 25, where his pass to Parkes was complete for the TD. The final score was 18-13, although Sewanee never really exhibited a strong scoring punch.

The Tigers journeyed to Clinton, Mississippi to drop their closest game of the year to a weaker Mississippi College eleven, 7-6. After the opening kickoff Parkes and Doswell tore through the Choctaw defense for 80 yards and a Tiger touchdown. A bad pass from center set up a Mississippi College touchdown in the second quarter, when the Choctaws scored from the 36 in three plays, ending the day's scoring. The Sewanee defense, spearheaded by Raines, Tebault, Welch, and Jones, held the Choctaws offense to a meager 77 yards.

An enthusiastic Homecoming crowd witnessed one of Sewanee's best-played games of the year the next week, although the Tigers lost their fourth straight to a much larger Wabash team by a score of 17-0. During the first quarter the Tiger offense pushed the Little Giants down to their own 15, but a costly fumble gave Wabash the ball. On the last play of the quarter, Parkes received a shoulder injury which kept him out of action the rest of the game.

Midway in the second quarter, Wabash started moving. Gabbert carried the ball 24 yards to the Sewanee 17, early in the second quarter Centre's left half, Jim Reed, ran through the entire Tiger team on an 83-yard scamper to paydirt. Harmon booted the conversion and the half ended 7-0.

Gene Scott took the opening kickoff of the second half and ran through an astonished Sewanee team for a beautiful 90-yard TD. Harmon's placement was again good, and Centre held a 14-0 lead. The Purple suddenly caught fire on its own twenty, and went 80 yards in nine plays for their only score of the day. Doswell and Parkes ran their best, and the outlook was bright for a Tiger win in the fourth quarter, when Millar's delayed buck moved the ball into Centre territory. But Parkes's pass intended for Tebault was intercepted by Smith, who went all the way for Centre's final score.

The Southwestern game at Memphis was another perfect example of the Tigers' hard luck story. Although Sewanee led in first downs, 15-11, the Lynx held the lead from where Vitio Grayam threw a six-point pass to Burdock. Grayam booted the extra point, and Wabash led 7-0 at the half.

The Tigers had another scoring chance on a pass interception by Kimbrough which gave Sewanee the ball on the Wabash 33, but the Little Giants took over on the 15 and held the ball until the end of the quarter. A poor kick gave Wabash another score in the fourth quarter and a 17-0 victory. The loss of Peebles, Parkes, and Millar ruined Sewanee's scoring chances.

Hampden-Sydney dealt Sewanee its fifth defeat of the year, 14-0. Rives scored both Hampden-Sydney touchdowns in the first five minutes of the game, and neither team did much moving during the remaining three quarters. The Purple was without the services of six first-stringers for this unspectacular game played under adverse weather conditions.

The Centre Colonels showed the Tigers how to use long runs for a winning game and defeated Sewanee on Hardee Field, 21-7. The first quarter was scoreless, but Southwestern scored twice again in the first period when they recovered a Sewanee fumble on the 26 and intercepted a Sewanee pass to set up the counters. With an 18-0 lead staring them in the face, the Tigers roared back in the second period as Doswell and Millar trampled the Lynx line on a sustained seventy-yard drive for Sewanee's first score.

After Higgason scored Southwestern's fourth touchdown, in the third quarter, Al Wade Jones threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Bill Stallings. Sewanee's final score came in the final quarter on a 75-yard drive with Bob Campbell scoring.

Sewanee closed the 1954 football season with a 19-7 loss to Ohio Wesleyan. Five seniors — Bobby Parkes, Billy Millar, Bill Doswell, Bill McCutchen, and Doc Gillespie—played their last game for the Tigers. Sewanee played an outstanding game, but made too many costly errors to grab the win. This game reflected the hard luck which followed the hapless Tigers through eight defeats. Dick Spore, as always, was outstanding on defense.

The "T" formation, introduced to Sewanee football this year, after having been laid aside for almost a decade, turned out to be too much for the Tiger footballers to master in one season. Two of the finest coaches in the South had to direct a group of men largely inexperienced and unfamiliar with even the fundamentals of the "T." Although this policy undoubtedly hurt this year's record, it will in all probability pay off in years to come.

Although the Tigers did not play championship football much of the year, they played the spirited game that has always been prevalent on Hardee Field. After the scores of the season's games have been forgotten, Purple fans will remember that the 1954 Sewanee Tigers gave to each game undying team and school spirit, and a true reflection of the best of the Sewanee tradition.

The Sewanee "Bees," while playing the toughest schedule in their history, had more success than the varsity, and ended the season with a 3-2 log. Starting fast, the Baby Tigers defeated Columbia Military Academy, Castle Heights, and Sewanee Military Academy. Injuries plagued the Cubs during their last two games, which they dropped to Baylor and Georgia Military Academy.

Lee Lance, ex-Tiger guard who coached the junior varsity during the '54 season, turned in an excellent job while working with boys who were for the most part inexperienced. Coach Lance, hampered by a lack of manpower, developed a fast-working ball club which never let up.

Aside from its own record, the B team performed invaluable service while acting as practice opposition for the varsity. By letting interested men play football, the B team fulfills its purpose of imparting necessary experience to the varsity men of years to come.

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Earle Shotwell's men ran away from five opponents to go through their second straight undefeated season. The harriers culminated their successful season by winning the Bryan Invitational Meet over Berea College, Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Bryan College, and Tusculum College.

The team opened the season against Maryville, one of the finest teams in the state. Although Maryville won the first two places, Sewanee placed the next three men and took five of the first nine spots, squeezing out a 27-31 win.

Next Sewanee invaded the Bryan track, and chances for a Tiger victory seemed slim. But the harriers ran stronger than they had against Maryville, defeating Bryan 24-31.

In the Tigers' 24-35 win over Berea, and a repeat triumph over Maryville, the usual pattern held. Each opponent took first place, but Sewanee men finished in bunches to pick up enough points to win. Don and Doug Crane and Ken Kinnett were consistently in the top five spots.

The Bryan Invitational Meet was the highlight of an outstanding season. The Tiger team of Doug and Don Crane, Jim Bradner, Ken Kinnett, Skip Barrett, and Ed McHenry ran a great race, winning the meet by a twenty-five point margin.

WRESTLING

Sewanee's wrestling team has been in existence for only two years, but has become in this short time one of the most popular team sports in the University. Although handicapped by the lack of a sufficient number of wrestlers with high school experience, Coach Peebles tutored a spirited team which gave a commendable performance in its second year of competition.

Captain Art Tranakos was the season's only consistent winner. Art went through the regular schedule without a defeat while posting six consecutive victories. His only loss of the year came in the semifinals of the Southeastern Intercollegiate Tournament, where Sewanee placed sixth among the schools of the South.

Sewanee opened the wrestling season against a highly experienced Fort Campbell Army team, which defeated the Tigers 35-5. Tranakos was the only point winner as he pinned his man in the 167-pound class. In the second match of the year, the Purple did considerably better against Emory. Wrestling in his second match, Harry Jones showed championship form in pinning his opponent. Captain Tranakos pinned his man and Dick Spore supplied a decision to give Sewanee a thirteen point total although Emory tallied twenty-one to take the match. In the Tigers' loss to the strong Maryville team, Tranakos supplied the only Sewanee points by pinning his opponent. Vanderbilt garnered a narrow victory over the Purple matmen, 19-11, although Rea, Tranakos, and Jones scored victories over the Commodores. Sewanee closed the season with two matches against Chattanooga. Although Tranakos won both his matches, Tom Garrott was the only other Sewanee point man.

The Tigers had the team spirit and determination to field a winning team, but they lacked depth and experience. Winning potential is there, however, and the future looks promising.

Steve Green ends a perfect three-on-one play with a score against Georgia Tech

In November, when basketball coach Lon Varnell opened practice, the outlook for the coming season was extremely bleak. Only thirteen candidates for the squad showed up. Four of these were lettermen, but only one had played a whole season as a starter. There was absolutely no new talent from which to pick among the freshmen.

In addition to the lack of material, the team faced probably the toughest schedule in the history of the school. Included on the schedule were such teams as Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Mississippi State, Rollins, and Davidson. Coach Varnell was heard to say more than once that he would be surprised if the team won four games all year.

However, neither he nor the small squad thought of just giving up before the season started, and they settled down to work hard and do the best they could. The results startled even the most diehard Tiger fans. After getting off to a slow start, the young team gained experience, and after compiling a one won and six lost record up to the time of the Christmas vacation, the team won eight out of their last twelve games to compile an overall season's record of nine wins and ten losses, which was a highly successful season when all factors are as considered.

The first game of the season was against the highly-touted Rollins College team. The Tigers, playing a deliberate game, managed to hold the lead throughout the first thirty-five minutes, only to lose in the last five minutes, 57-52, when better condition paid off for the visitors from Florida. The second game of the season was in Nashville against Vanderbilt. The nervous Sewanee five was never in the game after the first few minutes, and the talented Commodores won by a lopsided 88-48.

The Tigers then left on a trip to Memphis to play Southwestern and Davidson. As in the Rollins game, the Purple five led Southwestern throughout the game until the five minute mark, when they made several costly floor mistakes, and lost the game 71-63. In the first three games, only guard Joe Alligood and Captain Jim Dezell had been scoring with any consistency, and it was obvious that they alone could not produce many wins. In the Davidson game, forwards Larry Heppes and Joe McGrory finally found their stride, and the Tigers gave some indication of what was to come as they trounced Davidson 80-54. Dezell became the first Tiger to hit twenty points in a game, as he hit just 20 against Davidson. Sewanee next travelled to Starksville, Mississippi, to play Mississippi State. It took a half for Sewanee to realize that they were as good as the SEC team, and they trailed by 16 points with twelve minutes to go, when Heppes and McGrory suddenly got hot, and with less than a minute to go, the score was tied. However, all went for naught when State scored in the last ten seconds to win by three points, 77-74. The Tigers lost two more games before they went home for the holidays, one to Belmont by a score of 81-63, and one to Georgia Tech by a score of 74-57.

victories in Sewanee history. Sewanee played Georgia Tech here on the Mountain. The Purple was given little chance, having already been beaten by the Ramblin' Wrecks by 17 points. The Tigers were behind by five points at the half, and never led until the last ten seconds of the game, when Joe Alligood drove in for a lay-up to put Sewanee ahead 67-66. The packed gym erupted ten seconds later when the buzzer ended the game with no change in the score. The victory became even sweeter two days later when Tech beat Kentucky, the number one team in the nation at the time.

Next, the dribblers travelled to Birmingham, and played perhaps the worst games of the season, as they lost games to Howard, 81-63, and to Birmingham-Southern, 71-70. After winning one game and losing another on a trip to Mississippi the next week, Sewanee returned home, and began their winning surge. After defeating Transylvania 71-69, the fired-up Tigers met Howard College in a game which the team wanted to win perhaps more than any other that season. The game can rank only behind the Georgia Tech game as a thriller. After trailing by ten points at the half, Sewanee moved out in front with a minute to go, only to be tied, and the game went into overtime. Dezell made a crip and a foul shot with seconds remaining, and the game ended with a 76-75 victory for Sewanee. The team won the next four ball games, but lost their chance to have a winning season when they dropped a game to Chattanooga only a week after defeating the same team by 25 points. They finished up the season on a winning note however, as they defeated Southwestern by three points, 62-59, to avenge the earlier defeat.

Leading scorers for the year were Joe Alligood and Jim Dezell with seventeen and fifteen point averages, respectively. Larry Heppes, Steve Green, and Joe McGrory rounded out the five that started every game but one, and which usually played almost the entire game. Dezell, Heppes, and McGrory provided the rebound strength, while Green and Alligood were the ball handlers. The fine floor play of the two little guards was one of the big reasons for the success of the team. The starting five were aided greatly by the fine play of Jack Banks and Bill Doswell when they came in as substitutes.

Many reasons have been offered for the surprising success of the Tiger five, but Coach Varnell summed up the main reason very aptly when he said in effect that this team had more determination and will to succeed than any team he has ever coached, and success was due entirely to a team effort. Sewanee games were almost always crowd-pleasers, and it is certain that the 1954-55 Purple basketball team will be talked about and remembered for years as one of the most interesting Sewanee teams of all time.

DICK BRIGGS

The 1955 Tiger tennis squad will have to work hard to equal the record compiled by the 1954 squad, which scored an impressive eleven wins against only two losses.

The expert coaching of Dr. G. S. Burton helped the 1954 Tiger net men to chalk up victories over High Point, Chattanooga, David Lipscomb, Birmingham-Southern, Alabama, Southwestern, Florence State, Maryville, and Emory. The only Tiger losses were to Kalamazoo and Western Michigan.

Returning lettermen Dick Briggs, Pete Stewart, Keith Fort, and Howard Pritchard will provide the team with experience. Briggs, who played in the number one doubles spot with Webb White for much of last season, will head this year's team at the number one position. Stewart will probably be number two man, and 1955 Captain Fort will play at the number three spot. Pritchard will be the fourth man, while Ralph Troy, who was on last year's squad, will start in the fifth spot.

New men who Dr. Bruton hopes will give the squad added strength are Jackie Thompson, B. B. Sory, Griff Miller, Warner Stough, Larry Heppes, Jim Crowther, and Jim Dezell.

First Row: Renfrow, Thompson, Brice. Second Row: Butler, Steeves, Savage, Tompkins, Birdsey.

Led by Captain Jay Butler, the 1955 Tiger golf team has a good chance of bettering last year's record of six wins and three losses.

Although the team has only two lettermen returning, pre-season practice showed many promising prospects from the sophomore and freshman classes.

Jay Butler and Buck Cater are the two returning lettermen. Butler was one of the top men on last year's squad. He played in the number one and two positions. Cater played in the number four spot.

Under the able direction of Coach Walter Bryant, several new men promise to be top players for the Purple. The pre-season playing of Jack Thompson, Walter Brice, and Harry Steeves was especially noteworthy.

Another strong player for this year's squad will be Bill Stallings, who played in several matches last year, but who did not letter.

Strong competition will be offered by other new men to the squad including Luther Tompkins, Ralph Birdsey, Bill Renfrow, Bob Tomlinson, Carroll Savage, and Bill Johnston. This year's season will include dual matches with M.T.S.C., Auburn, T.P.I., Alabama, Southwestern, Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Lambuth, and Chattanooga.

This year the T.I.A.C. meet will be held at Sewanee. With the experience gained from previous matches, plus the added advantage of playing on their own course, the Tiger linksters should be in top form for the state meet.

Despite the loss of Gene Eyler, Ray Terry, and John McWhirter, the Tiger golf squad is looking forward to one of its best seasons in many years.

Third Row: Mitchell, Manager; Keck, Talley, Scott, Walsh, Wright, Beare, Veal, Coach Williamson. Fourth Row: Greene, Koch, Young, Donald, Hornbarger, Porter, Stout, Warfel.

Coach Williamson and Captain Bill Doswell make a few plans.

Jim Greene, Tiger point man, clears a low hurdle.

The success of this year's track team, captained by New Orleans senior Bill Doswell, will depend largely on just how quickly the men on the squad learn from the experience they will acquire during the season. Track coach Ernie Williamson has an exceedingly difficult task cut out for him in respect to molding a team comparable to last year's, which lost only to Kentucky in dual meet competition. To point out this fact it is only necessary to mention that the Tigers have lost five of their six highest scorers from last year's squad. Val Gene Mixon, Skip Criddle, and Jim Seidule have graduated, and Doug and Don Crane have transferred. The absence of these five point-men will be sorely felt by this year's squad.

Freshman Mike Veal is Coach Williamson's brightest prospect among the newcomers to this year's squad. Veal is a stellar performer in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, having won several medals in the Florida State Meet last spring. The work-horse of this year's team, as things stand as the CAP AND GOWN goes to press, will be Jim Greene, an excellent performer in the low and high hurdles and also in the various field events, as was evidenced by his performances in meet after meet last year. In the half mile, the key man will definitely be sophomore Kent Rea, number one scorer in that event for Sewanee last season.

In the distance events, the load will rest on the shoulders of Ken Kinnett in the two-mile and Jim Bradner in the one-mile run.

The 1955 schedule included Kentucky, Howard, Bryan, Emory, and the T.I.A.C. meet at Sewanee. This year, Vanderbilt and the University of Tennessee did not enter the T.I.A.C. meet, encouraging the entrance of many smaller schools. In their only meet away from the Mountain this spring the Tigers tangled with Southwestern and Memphis State in a triangular meet in Memphis.

Dave Hatchett, Jim Bradner, and Kent Rea prepare for the gun.

"S" CLUB

Membership in the "S" Club is an honor won by earning a letter in any varsity sport. The Club sponsors projects having to do with athletics. This year members sold soft drinks and hot dogs at athletic events, officiated at track meets, and in general made themselves useful. The "S" Club itself donated a new scoreboard for Hardee Field, purchased a trophy case for the Union, and presented the annual "Senior Athlete of the Year" award.

CHEERLEADERS

Cheerleading activities start with football season and continue through the basketball schedule. This year's squad, capably headed by Pete Horn, has been instrumental in keeping up morale in a year when varsity athletics have not met with the success of previous years. At pep rallies, at games, and in leading dining hall cheers, these acrobats have done a fine job. Acting as assistants to the Parade Marshal, they were partially responsible for the success of this year's Homecoming Parade.

For the third consecutive season, the race for the coveted intramural sports trophy was dominated by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Although the CAP AND GOWN goes to press too early to allow inclusion of the final results in softball, tennis, golf, and swimming, the ATOs have already built up a substantial lead with three firsts, three seconds, and one third, and they are a popular choice to pick up two more first places in softball and golf.

The ATOs took their first points in football as they rolled to a perfect season. The light blue were sparked throughout the season by Johnny Boult, their diminutive tailback. The best competition came from the Phi Delts and the Phi Gams. The Phis had perhaps the best passing combination in the league in tailback Dick Corbin and end Jim Greene.

The Fijis featured a strong defense led by Doug and Don Crane, and Ed Duggan.

In the annual post-season game between the Intramural All-Stars and the ATO champions, the All-Stars took a thrilling 7-6 decision.

The next major event of the season was the intramural cross-country meet, which was run separately from the traditional freshman cake race this year for the first time. Although Ed McHenry, representing the Phis, was the individual winner of the race, the Sigma Nus had enough balance to win the team crown, finishing just ahead of the ATOs.

INTRAMURALS

After the football season was over, attention turned to volleyball. The Sigma Nus took their second first place by rolling through the season undefeated for the second straight year. The Snakes were led by Gerry Nichols and Lucien Brailsford in their successful defense of the volleyball title. The Sigma Nus had their main competition from the Betas, who placed second, followed by the Phis and the Phi Gams.

After the Christmas recess, basketball season got under way. The ATOs were the defending champions, and they too were successful in defending their title as they went undefeated in the regular season. The ATOs were a well-balanced team with no one exceptionally high scorer, although Bobby Parkes and Bob Cherry were usually top point men. The Phis took second place, sparked by Corbin and Greene. The SAEs, led by Bobby Murray, and the Phi Gams, led by league-leading scorer Ed Duggan, rounded out the top four. In the annual post-season game between the Vandy and Sewanee intramural champions, the ATOs put up a great battle before losing by ten points.

As spring rolled onto the Mountain, the spotlight turned to the intramural track meet. The meet this year was a three-team affair, with the Sigma Nus taking an early lead, then falling behind the ATOs and Phi Gams, who battled down to the last event, the mile relay, which the ATOs won to clinch first place. The ATOs had no one big point man, but scored well in almost every event. For the fourth straight year, Billy Millar took a first for the ATOs in the 100-yard dash. Bobby Parkes, Bob Keck, Steve Green, and Jack Banks were other scorers. Jim Dezell and Kim Kimball were the big point-getters for the Fijis, while Sam Waymouth, Norman Walsh, Jack Starritt, and Corky Little scored heavily for the Snakes.

In the minor spring sports, Barney McCarty took the handball singles title to lead the Theologs to their only points of the year, and Howard Pritchard took the badminton singles title to give the Phis a first place in that event.

These events rounded out the sports which can be reported in this year's annual. As usual, the intramural program this year was a source of great interest and spirited competition. Any report on the intramural program would be incomplete without a note of thanks to Director of Athletics, Walt Bryant, who did a wonderful job of coordinating and running the program.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Two members from each fraternity—the president and another member elected for a term of one year—comprise the Pan-Hellenic Council, which has charge over rushing and inter-fraternity relations among the nine national social fraternities represented on the Mountain. The presidency and the secretaryship rotate among the fraternities. Pete Garland, president of Phi Delta Theta, presided over the Council this year.

Chief activity of the Pan-Hellenic Council is the supervision of Rush Week, which roughly parallels the first week of classes in the Fall. Sewanee's unusual system of rushing provides a great deal of work for those in charge of it; the Council handles these details capably and methodically. At the end of Rush Week, the Council's main task is finished, but it continues to meet at least once a month throughout the year in order to insure cooperation and harmony among the fraternities.

Seated: Followill, Albritton, Garland, Cabell, Kneeland. Standing: Baker, Duggan, Nash, Nichols.

Seated: D. Green; G. Miller; J. H. Porter; R. T. Birdsey; O. G. Beall; P. M. Horn. Kneeling: R. T. Cherry; R. L. Palmer; J. B. Gutsell; D. D. Briggs; J. W. Boult; R. J. Parkes, R. K. Keck; F. S. Stuart. First row standing: J. T. Garrott; D. R. Mogill; W. R. Johnston; W. R. Campbell; W. T. Doswell; J. M. Scott; R. B. Hughes; J. E. Banks. Second row standing: C. L. Marks, H. W. Applegate; J. F. Chalker; H. A. Hornbarger; H. T. Elmer; W. W. Davis; R. L. Donald; J. W. Walker; J. P. Bowers; E. McCrady; C. W. Lewis. Third row standing: W. S. Brettman; H. F. Arnold; H. T. D'Alemberte; F. B. Avery; K. Finlay; D. A. Nunnally.

Tennessee Omega of Alpha Tau Omega celebrated its 78th year of continuous existence by putting up strong fights to retain its trophies. Parkes and Doswell led the brothers in the fray, as did key key-men D'Alemberte, Trawick, Millar, Boult, and Walker. But there's more to the story: Pledge Day, Homecoming, the pledge class's mammoth Covite Party, Midwinters, Military Weekend, and innumerable Saturday night hif-fi-and-low-ceiling sessions tell a little about the Chapter's Other Side. There were a few crises, too, like the time the Tie Man almost broke up a meeting and when Finlay hit Doswell's date with the ukulele. All in all, though, it's been a lot of fun.

After reaping sixteen would-be Betas in rush week, Gamma Chi set off for a full fraternity year, in which the goal of Party proved none too nebulous. Homecoming and Midwinters parties assured the mettle of the crew; and, as Father Wooglin descended to preside over the April Beta Weekend, even arch-conservative opinion admitted "quite a blast!" Informal dinners and parties, often with district chief Bill Yardley in attendance, did their part in maintaining Sewanee's claims to uniqueness. Despite numerous time-outs for debauchery, the Betas again grabbed second place among the fraternities in scholarship, and wound up second in intramural volleyball competition.

Beta Theta Chapter, founded in 1883, placed heavy emphasis this year on major Shelter improvements, with hammers, nails, and saws much in evidence. The close of the academic year saw the chapter room and game room completely redecorated, and the living room and the bar renovated. Because all work and no play . . . well, at any rate, the year was not without its share of parties. In addition to the usual parties on dance weekends, there was the Rainbow Ball, not to mention numerous beer parties which seemed to form whenever a few of the brothers got together. For all Delts the culmination of all parties for the year is the Parisian Party, held on May 17. With only a week to recuperate, the brethren plunged into exam week, and another year is over.

Culminating a highly successful rush week during which twenty-two boys were initiated, Alpha Alpha Chapter held its annual Pledge Banquet with Former Knight Commander Elliot Dunwoody of Macon as speaker. Parties of varying nature have been held all year, in spite of the objections of Brothers Brice and Webb. Not wishing to wait for University weekends, a "KATO" party was organized in December; the annual Old South Ball, in April, was another exceptional occasion.

KA intramural teams, bolstered by Freshman Brothers Thompson, Hootsell, and Hodgdon, gained a wealth of experience this year, making the outlook bright for the next three seasons. With members out for football, track, tennis, and golf, the varsities next year should have their share of KA's. All in all, members are counting on another year as successful as this one has been.

Founded at the University of Virginia in 1869, the Kappa Sigma Fraternity has grown to a present strength of 148 chapters. The seventeenth of those chapters was recognized at Sewanee on November 14, 1882.

The past year has been, to say the least, eventful for Omega Chapter. Success has been seen especially in alumni organization and in scholastic standing, where the chapter jumped to third place on the strength of four 4.00 men.

The most eventful day of the year for Omega was January 8, when the fraternity house was gutted by fire. After three homeless months, however, Omega moved into a completely redecorated and refurnished house, which contains many added conveniences. The chapter is extremely proud of its new home.

Tennessee Beta of Phi Delta Theta, established at Sewanee in 1883, sprang out of its summertime lull with energetic participation in all phases of Sewanee life. Brothers Garland, Bozeman, Corbin, and Creveling firmly planted the Phis in campus key positions, while Brothers Grundy, Brantley, and Statham led the regiment from behind in the public relations and social fields.

With Brothers Corbin, Greene, Butler, Pritchard, and Raines gaining athletic pre-eminence, the Phis rate high in regaining the intramural trophy to place on the mantle under the perpetually cocked eyes of Brother George the Moose.

Social festivities included dissipations at Homecoming, Midwinters, in March, and at the Military Ball party weekend. The chapter has derived much enjoyment from the new terrace and from the remodeled basement game room.

Rush week led to the donning of the White Star by eighteen new pledges, who got into the act at Homecoming, when the Fijis took first place in house decorations, and Miss Nancy Skelton, Fiji Queen, was crowned Homecoming Queen. The annual clothing drive for the underprivileged was conducted, and the Phi Gams were hosts to the Mountain at the annual Homecoming Pledge Tea.

Athletically, intramural teams placed high, and as usual there was a sizable Fiji aggregation on the varsity cross-country and track teams.

Partying held sway often, especially at Homecoming, Christmas, Midwinters, the Pig Dinner for alumni in March, and the Fiji Weekend, complete with Fiji Island Ball and Black Diamond Formal.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, founded at the University of Alabama in 1856, is now in its 74th year on the Mountain. Tennessee Omega has the distinction of being the first SAE chapter to own its own house.

The Sig Alphs have always been noted for their outstanding performance in athletics, both varsity and intramural, and in campus affairs and leadership. This year was certainly no exception. Athletically, Heppes, Tebault, Murray, Lance, and Tranakos helped keep up the old standards; while Whitaker, Williams, McGee, and Kinnett kept the Sig Alphs high in campus standing.

Informal parties were the rule rather than the exception, and when the Chapter got together for a blast, as at Homecoming, Midwinters, and Founders' Day, the results were fabulous.

Beta Omicron of Sigma Nu was instituted at Sewanee in 1889, just twenty years after the fraternity was founded at V.M.I. The chapter looks back over a successful year in the promotion of scholarship, service, and athletics. Brothers Savage, Lindholm, and Boling wear coveted Phi Beta Kappa keys, while Brothers Brailsford and Lindholm held down some of the most responsible campus positions. Intramural sports proved rewarding, as the Sigma Nu's swept through an unbeaten volleyball season and racked up intramural points in several other sports. And as always, the parties were all that could be desired, climaxed by the extremely successful White Rose Formal in the spring.

IN MEMORIAM

BOONE EMBRY MASSEY

March 26, 1933

January 6, 1955

Boone Embry Massey, 21, of Dade City, Florida, a senior economics major, ended his life Thursday morning, January 6, 1955. Massey in his junior year was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He also held membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, Blue Key, Pi Gamma Mu, Arnold Air Society, Pan-Hellenic Council, Music Club, and the Executive Committee of the Order of Gownsmen. He had served as assistant business manager of the "Purple" and as advertising manager for the CAP AND GOWN. He was selected for listing in this year's edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

At the time of his death, Boone was president of Kappa Alpha Order, chairman of the Honor Council, business manager of the CAP AND GOWN, president of the Cadet Club, commander of the AFROTC-University Band, and held the rank of cadet major in the AFROTC Cadet Corps. He had previously been secretary, corresponding secretary, and rush chairman for his fraternity. He participated in intramural swimming for three years and he sang in the choir for two years. Last spring he sang the title role in the comic opera, "The Village Barber."

Boone had an unflagging energy and enthusiasm in everything he undertook, which, combined with an apparently indestructible self-assurance and a candid openness, made him a campus leader and a person of wide popularity.

He was often kidded for his enthusiasm. Unlike most people, he never affected indifference toward honors and accomplishments. Boone's studies and extracurricular activities were what filled his life; why shouldn't he strive to excel as much as possible in what he was doing? Glory is basically the same, whether now in college or later in the world.

The tragedy of Boone Massey is that he will not have a chance to fulfill his future. He has been cut off forever from the opportunity of accomplishing anything more in the world. But he has already left his indelible mark on all our memories.

A WORD OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

cannot possibly mention the names of all those who have contributed to the publication of the 1955 CAP AND GOWN. To all who have in any way assisted in its creation, we, the staff of the 1955 annual, are genuinely grateful. Assistant editors and their staffs are deserving of praise for the thoroughness and conscientiousness with which they have accomplished their respective jobs. Especially, we wish to thank Mr. John T. Benson III, of the Benson Printing Company, for his guidance and advice throughout the year; Mr. Robert Faerber, of the Alabama Engraving Company, for his invaluable assistance; Mr. Victor E. Cooley, of Collins and Cooley, for his fine photographic work and his unsurpassed service; the Alumni Office, for the use of its facilities; Mr. Howard Coulson, for his cooperation when called on at the last minute; Mr. David Lindholm, for stepping into a major position on our staff, and for fulfilling the attendant responsibilities expertly and conscientiously. It is our hope that, together with these and innumerable other sources of assistance, we have been able to produce a CAP AND GOWN closer to realizing the ideal of a yearbook worthy of Sewanee.

A MEMORABLE YEAR

• Congratulations to the Student Body and Faculty of the University of the South for completion of another outstanding year.

• The Staff of your annual has worked exceedingly hard to give you a superb book and one which portrays the highlights of memorable activities.

• Neither time, effort nor expense have been spared to provide you with a permanent record, attractively presented and complete in every detail.

• To preserve the photography and literary efforts of the Staff, the best grades of material have been combined with skilled workmanship to provide the finest quality yearbook.

• We are proud that the 1955 Staff elected us to help design, print and bind "The Cap and Gown." We have earnestly endeavored to fulfill the confidence placed in us.
